'Cable Car Joey' Climbs to Top

BY MIMI BELL

It was "Cable Car Joey Day" last week at the Chicago Railroad Fair, but Naomi MacCabe, San Carlos author who wrote the gay little book, "Cable Car Joey," was far too busy to attend. She had intended to be there, but Joey's affairs at home had her swamped.

On sale for less than two weeks, "Cable Car Joey," a book ostensibly for youngsters, is already going into its second printing at the Stanford Press, while its author, a petite, soft-spoken writer-housewife, has been engulfed in speaking engagements, radio interviews and afternoons of autographing.

For 10 years a resident of San Carlos, Naomi MacCabe is one of those unassuming women who quietly manage home and hobbies, children and careers without any fuss. Mother of three children, and long active in school and civic affairs, she takes it as a matter of course that she should write and study on the side.

Through the years—her two sons enter college this Fall while her 11-year-old daughter attends San Carlos school—Mrs. MacCabe has written consistently, children's stories, articles for such publications as Parents' Magazine, and numerous skits and plays for school and scouts.

Since she keeps no help, the writer explains, the trick is to get up at six in the morning so as to finish the housework by nine. From 9 to 12 she keeps regular writing hours. The rumpled room is her office, a pillow over the telephone her strong ally. Scout work, with both girls and boys—her sons are both Eagle scouts—and PTA have been routine, and she has always taught Sunday School. On the side she is studying through extension courses, for a law degree!

Her recent book about San Francisco's beloved cable cars hit the best seller list during its first 10 days on the book stalls. "Joey," whose parents were a horse-drawn car and a balloon car pulled by mules, is a "live character" to the McCabes. His name was really "Joey" at first because Mrs. MacCabe, who always loved to ride the San Francisco hills by cable car, noticed how happy people always seemed on the clanging little cars.

"I never saw a sour looking person riding on a cable car," she says.

"Joey," grew out of that idea and the process brought a lot of joy to the MacCabe family.

Lorin MacCabe, who drew the beguiling illustrations for the book, rode up and down the city's steep slopes for hours with his wife, sketching, taking pictures, absorbing ideas.

An artist on the side, whose painting had received recognition in the Bay Area, Mr. MacCabe would sketch pictures of "Joey" while Sandra, the 11-year-old who also has a flare for painting, would stand by his easel. Then the boys would pass on them, and so "Joey," says the author, "grew up with the family."

On the day after Mr. MacCabe painted the last illustration for the book, he was killed in an airplane crash.

Whatever Mrs. MacCabe may write in the future, "Joey" will probably always be her favorite character. He was the product of a happy home.

"A lot of fun got into that book," she says.

The fun shines through in the story now going into so many households. There were 5000 copies in the first printing, and more adults than children have been clamoring for autographs, Mrs. MacCabe says.

The author, whose home is on Orange Ave. back of the Central School in San Carlos, will continue with her writing in the children's field. She will not, however, spend too much time with the pillow over the telephone.

Writers should not shut themselves up in towers, she thinks. To give a book a "touch of reality," one must "do a little living along with it."

RC Burglars Grab Cash and Cigarettes

Burglars entered Tony's Place, 1681 Main St., and stole 16 cartons of cigarettes and $40 in cash sometime over the week-end and early Sunday morning.

The burglary was discovered yesterday morning and police said it probably took place sometime between 4:30 p.m. Saturday and early yesterday morning.

The thieves entered through an unlocked window at the side of the building.

HITS THE BELL WITH "JOEY" — Mrs. Naomi MacCabe holds a copy of her recent story about the San Francisco cable car which has become a best seller in every book store in the city. Mrs. MacCabe wrote the book in her San Carlos home, and her husband, later killed in an airplane crash, did the drawings.

RC Contractor Dies As Jeep Overturns

A Redwood City contractor died in Community Hospital Sunday morning 12 hours after he was injured in an accident on Bayshore Hwy. near Holly Ave., San Carlos.

The death of Jack W. Roberts, 38, of 1048 Jefferson St., was the only highway traffic fatality during the Labor Day weekend. Mr. Roberts was critically injured at 10:11 p.m. Saturday when his southbound jeep went out of control, rolled over several times on the highway, and then collided with a northbound truck.

The CHP reported that a mechanical defect in the jeep was believed to be the cause of the accident.

Mr. Roberts was thrown on the east shoulder of the highway after the jeep overturned. He

Belmont Masonic Club Plans Barbecue

Plans are being formulated for a Belmont Masonic Club barbecue and jamboree to be held Sept. 25 at the George Campbell home on Oak Knoll Dr.

Teacher From Scotland Arrives To Instruct at White Oaks School

Miss Muriel Nicol Carruthers, a teacher from Scotland, is now in San Carlos to begin a one-year assignment at the White Oaks Elementary School under the Teacher Interchange Program sponsored by the national Committee on Interchange of Teachers and the Office of Education, Federal Security Agency. Miss Carruthers is exchanging positions with Miss Mary Barr Cory, who is already in Great Britain.

Announcement of the exchange program in this area was made recently by F. W. Hunter, regional director of the Federal Security Agency with headquarters in San Francisco. Mr. Hunter, whose office serves Arizona, California, Nevada, Oregon, and Washington, and the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii on Federal Security Agency programs, said that in addition to Miss Carruthers, seven teachers are en route to this state for one-year assignments.

Altogether, 97 teachers arrived in the United States from England, North Ireland, Scotland, and Wales Aug. 18th, under the teacher exchange program. They were greeted in New York City by representatives of the Office of Education, Department of State, suffered a fractured skull, spinal fractures and internal injuries. He was taken unconscious to Community Hospital and did not recover consciousness.

Mr. Roberts had lived in Redwood City for the past four years. He was going home from Oakland at the time of the accident. The driver of the truck which was struck by the jeep, Chang Lim Hoy, 48, of San Francisco, was not injured.

Shot Misses Baby, Hits Woman

A stray bullet just missed a 10-month-old baby girl in San Bruno Sunday morning and lodged itself in the leg of the child's mother.

Mrs. Olga Chaney, 28, San Bruno housewife, was helping her daughter, Alexa, walk in the backyard of their home at 137 Linden Ave.

Suddenly Mrs. Chaney felt a pain in her right calf, and looking down, saw a small wound. She was taken to Mills Memorial Hospital, where doctors said a small bullet had entered her leg, possibly from a .22 caliber rifle.

San Bruno police surmised the shot came from the hills west of San Bruno where a number of people were target shooting Sunday morning.

Mrs. Chaney said the shot missed hitting the child's stomach by half an inch.

SC Schools Seriously Overcrowded

Miss Ruth Melendy, superintendent of San Carlos schools, reports that the school administration is trying to maintain full-day sessions in grades 3 and 4, but already classes in grades 3 through 6 are becoming seriously overloaded.

Mrs. Dorothy McClay and Larry Kasdon have accepted assignments to work with individual and small groups of children needing remedial work in these overloaded classes, Miss Melendy said. In this way the shy or retarded pupil may have some chance for individual work even in large classes, she added.

Pupils in grades 1 and 2 will attend classes on a split-session basis. Grade 1 will be in session between 8 and 12 a.m. and grade 2 pupils will attend school from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m., Miss Melendy said.

Using present registration figures, children of grade 3 through 8 will start the school year on regular full-day session.

Children who were attending San Carlos schools last year are to report on the first day of school, Sept. 12, to last year's classroom. Both morning and afternoon kindergarten children last year are to report to their last year's room at 8:30 a.m. on Sept. 12. From there they will be directed to their new classrooms and will remain in class until 12 noon.

Children entering grade 2 on Sept. 12 should report to last year's classroom at 12:30 p.m. They will remain in class until 4:30 p.m.

Children of all other grade levels will report to last year's classroom at 9 a.m.

On the first day of school only, hours will be: kindergarten, a special timing scheduled by letter to parents; Grade 1, 8:30 to 12; Grade 2, 12:30 to 4:30; Grade 3, 9 to 1:45; Grade 4, 9 to 2:30; Grade 5, 9 to 2:30; Grade 6, 9 to 2:30; Grade 7, 9 to 2:30; Grade 8, 9 to 2:35.

School buses will maintain last year's schedule of times and stops until it is possible to see where changes are necessary, Miss Melendy added.

Alarm, Police Foil Burglary Here

A ringing burglar alarm and the Redwood City police halted four youths in an attempt to burglarize Magnani's Market, 515 El Camino Real, Monday at 11:30 p.m.

Police caught one of the youths in the act of trying to drop down through a hole in the roof of the building. Officers fired two shots after they attempted to halt the burglars and the youths surrendered to the police.

Police ordered the would-be burglars to come out of the building and when they did not comply officers fired the shots over their heads.

A new burglar alarm had recently been installed at the market as the store had been burglarized several times in the past months. The alarm had failed to work during the previous burglaries.

The four youths, all under 17, were being questioned by police today in conjunction with other burglaries of the market but they maintained this was the first time they had been in the store.

Sequoia Lists Fall Plans, New Teaching Staff Told

Sequoia High School officials this week are making last minute plans for the opening of school Monday.

Sixteen new teachers will officially join the staff. Supt. Clyde Ogden said that many of these teachers are from out of town and are having difficulty finding places to live. He asked that anyone having suitable homes or apartments available phone the school.

A full day schedule will be held on Monday. Student assemblies will be held at the same time registration rooms are open. Regular bus schedules will be in operation on opening day, but because of the great number of students the schedule may be staggered, Krogh said.

Krogh requested that health record cards, sent home with incoming freshmen when they were signed up last Spring, be filled out by the family doctor and brought to school on the first day.

Tells Police Hunger Forced Him to Try $400 Market Holdup

A 20-year-old bridegroom, hungry and desperate Sunday night robbed a Menlo Park store, fired a shot which nearly hit the proprietor, and fled with about $400.

He and his 17-year-old pregnant bride were arrested three hours later in San Jose after a wild chase along Santa Clara county back roads a speeds up to 95 miles an hour.

Belmont Puts $5 an Hour Tag on Police

A Belmont policeman's time is worth $5 an hour, according to an ordinance introduced this week by the Belmont City Council.

The new ordinance regulates house moving within the city and provides that policemen and street department employees be paid not less than $5 an hour for any time spent in connection with the moving of houses.

City Atty. Paul McCarthy brought up the ordinance after Councilman Lester Reetz reported that Daley Bros., County Rd., Belmont, had moved a house into Belmont which required seven and a half hours police time and five hours street department time for supervision and traffic control. On Reetz' recommendation the council voted to bill Daley Bros. $62.50 for the services of city employees.

According to the proposed ordinance, a permit to move a house in the city will be issued only after a $100 deposit has been made to compensate police officers and other city employees and the route of the moving operation has been submitted to the city.

The person moving the house must carry a $50,000 liability policy and must obtain written permission from property owners where trees or foliage need to be cut. The city will assign the necessary number of police officers and street department employees for the job.

Violations of the ordinance will result in a fine not exceeding $300 or 30 days in jail or both.

McCarthy said that if a police officer renders a service to an individual there is a property to a charge. He said a number of cities have house-moving ordinances but none provide for compensation to the city.

Last night the council also: Delayed action on a sewer assessment district on Klee St. until the property owners sign an agreement to pay incidental expenses. The council accepted plans and a report from City Atty. Lawrence Brian.

Postponed action on a request by Albert and Delia Garibaldi to annex seven lots on County Rd. near Marine View Ave. into the city.

The council asked McCarthy to determine if the property is contiguous to Belmont since it is separated from the city limits by County Rd.

Named John F. Greeder of San Francisco to audit the city books quarterly at a rate of $100 per quarter.

Belmont Wants In Pound Plan

The city of Belmont asked today to be included in any plans the San Mateo may develop for pound facilities.

Belmont Councilman Donnell McCarthy, in a letter to Arthur B. Sullivan, San Mateo city manager, said his city is willing to go along with San Mateo in either a two-city (San Mateo and Belmont) or a four city (San Mateo, Burlingame, Hillsborough and Belmont) pound arrangement.

"Belmont cannot afford to maintain a full pound by itself," McCarthy wrote, "yet it could contribute substantially to the expense of joint facilities."

Mrs. N. M. Brown Entertains Card Unit

Entertaining for the regular every other Tuesday meeting of the first card section of the Belmont Woman's Club last week was Mrs. N. M. Brown of Avon St., Belmont Park.

Guest players at the meeting were Mrs. K. B. Matheny, daughter of Mrs. Brown, and Mrs. Edmund Johanson and Mrs. M. B. Welch.

Members playing were Mrs. Sidney Muller, section chairman, and Mmes. Harrison Klages, Harry E. Holder, William Blank, Arthur A. Dowst, J. C. Merriek, Albertus Niehuus and William Cellers.

William Mickens of Downey was booked at the county jail on charges of armed robbery, assault with a deadly weapon and parole violation.

The robbery occurred at 5:35 p.m. Sunday at the Sunshine Grocery, 729 Santa Cruz Ave., Menlo Park.

Menlo Park police reported that Mickens held up Mrs. Lucille Massa, who was at the cash register, and fired a shot which passed close to her husband, Louis, and another man, Stanley Rogers, 857 Oak Grove Ave.

The young bridegroom admitted the robbery to Menlo Park police officers William Pipkin, Tom Casey and Marvin McIntyre. However, he claimed that his wife did not know he was going to rob the store.

The officers said that the youth walked into the store, produced a .38-caliber revolver, and told Mrs. Massa:

"This is a stickup!"

Startled, Mrs. Massa called "Jimmie," her husband's nickname.

Massa, who was standing in the center of the store with Rogers, took a step forward.

"If you take another step toward me I'll shoot her," Mickens snapped. "And to show you I'm not fooling—"

With that, he fired the gun. The investigating officers said that the bullet passed waist-high within inches of the two men and lodged in a sack of pancake flour.

Mickens ordered Mrs. Massa away from the counter while he scooped up the money. He then ran to the front door.

"If any of you leave the store I'll kill him," he warned as he went through the door.

Massa ran to the front and saw Mickens getting into a 1940 Ford coupe bearing Idaho license plates. A young girl was sitting to the right of the driver's seat.

Although Menlo Park police arrived on the scene within seconds of the time of the holdup, no trace was reported of the bandit car for about an hour and a half. Bay area police were alerted to be on the lookout for it.

The next report was that a car answering the description had taken gasoline at a service station in Atherton. There was only a young woman in the car.

A half hour after the last report was given out on the car, which was believed to be headed south, Santa Clara County Deputy Sheriffs Marion Bennett and William Mollison spotted the car on a country road back of Los Altos.

They gave chase, and Mickens gunned his vehicle trying to escape. The deputies said that the chase stretched for 15 to 20 miles at 90 and 95 miles an hour speeds.

Santa Clara police joined in the chase. The deputies during the chase fired eight shots in trying to stop the car, but Mickens turned out the lights of his car.

In San Jose the fleeing car sideswiped a parked automobile, but did not stop. San Jose police set up a road block at Bayshore Hwy. and First Ave., resulting in Mickens' capture.

The youth confessed to the robbery in the Menlo Park police station while his wife listened tearfully.

Bitterly, Mickens told of his search for a job, and his money running out.

He and Barbara Chambers, whom he had known for two years, were married three months ago in Downey, near Los Angeles. The young wife now is expecting a baby, Mickens declared.

They left Downey while Mickens looked for work as a painter. They had $50 for the trip.

Mickens said he expected to locate relatives in the Bay Area, but could not find them. Saturday night, with their money gone, they slept in the coupe parked on a lonely back road. They had driven up from Santa Barbara.

Belmont Recreation Proposals Postponed

Belmont city councilmen this week took no official action on a request from the city recreation commission to purchase a site for a future recreation building, tabling the request for consideration at a later meeting.

In a letter to the council, the commission pointed out that the city needs a public building for civic, community, and recreational purposes, and asked that the council consider purchasing a 13 lot site on Notre Dame Ave.

The Rev. John Daley, chairman of the commission, in the letter stated that he personally knew from experience the need for a public meeting place in Belmont. He recommended that the site be purchased even if the building can't be financed right away.

The site is located on Notre Dame Ave. between Ralston Ave. and Belburn Dr. and has an estimated value of $28,000.

"There's no recommendation there on how to pay for it," commented Councilman Lyle Jones.

Councilman Donnell McCarthy, who presented the recreation commission's request, said he would like to make a personal check of the site and on other property available before making any decision. He said he endorsed the long range planning of the commission but would like to see if there is any property available at less cost.

"The people can buy and pay for the land and construction if they want to, and if they don't want to they won't," declared Councilman Lester Reetz. Reetz suggested that the council send a letter to all organizations in the city informing them of the commission's recommendation in order to find out what residents think of the plan.

A year and a half ago, Belmont residents voted down a $100,000 bond issue to purchase the Pullman property on Ralston Ave. as a recreation center.

Councilman Edward Levesconte said he felt that the Pullman property was and still is a better buy for the money since the land is improved and the site now proposed by the recreation commission is unimproved.

Police to Get Teletype Network

A network of teletypes will be installed in San Mateo County police stations by the end of September, and will make it more difficult for criminals to escape the law.

Chief Radioman Walter Harrington of the sheriff's office said that the teletypes are to be installed in six police stations and the sheriff's office.

The cities which will be included in the county network are Daly City, South San Francisco, Burlingame, San Bruno, San Carlos and Redwood City.

Harrington said that Menlo Park, Atherton, Belmont and Hillsborough may decide to enter the hookup later. San Mateo already is on a statewide circuit.

The teletypes were ordered today by the sheriff's office. In practice, whenever a crime occurs in any of the cities, a report of it can be placed on the teletype, with description of the suspects, or the methods of operation used in the crime.

Police officers in the other cities will be able to read the descriptions and pool their knowledge. At present, one police department may not know of a crime committed in another jurisdiction until the newspapers carry the story.

The cost of the teletype hookup will be about $40 a month for each city, Harrington declared.

In addition to local messages, the teletypes can be cut into the state circuit when a distant police department has a message for one of the cities in San Mateo County.

Belmont Mariner Troop Elects New Officers

Members of the Belmont Mariner Troop held their fall election Monday night at the home of Barbara Hyne.

Those elected were Sandra Christensen, president; Doreen Daugherty, vice president; Betty Hurd, secretary; Sheila Johnson, treasurer; and Bev Barnes, historian and publicity.

Retiring officers are Betty Maxwell, president; Marcia Keil, vice president; Rosalyn Stuparich, secretary; and Melva Johnson, treasurer.

Last week the group painted a room on the barge in Belmont harbor in preparation for open house during the Sea Scout Regatta on Sept. 24 and 25. The Mariners have been invited as guests of the Sea Scouts at their dance on the barge and at the regatta events during the sea festival.

The next project of the troop is to offer its entire support toward the Community Chest Drive in October.

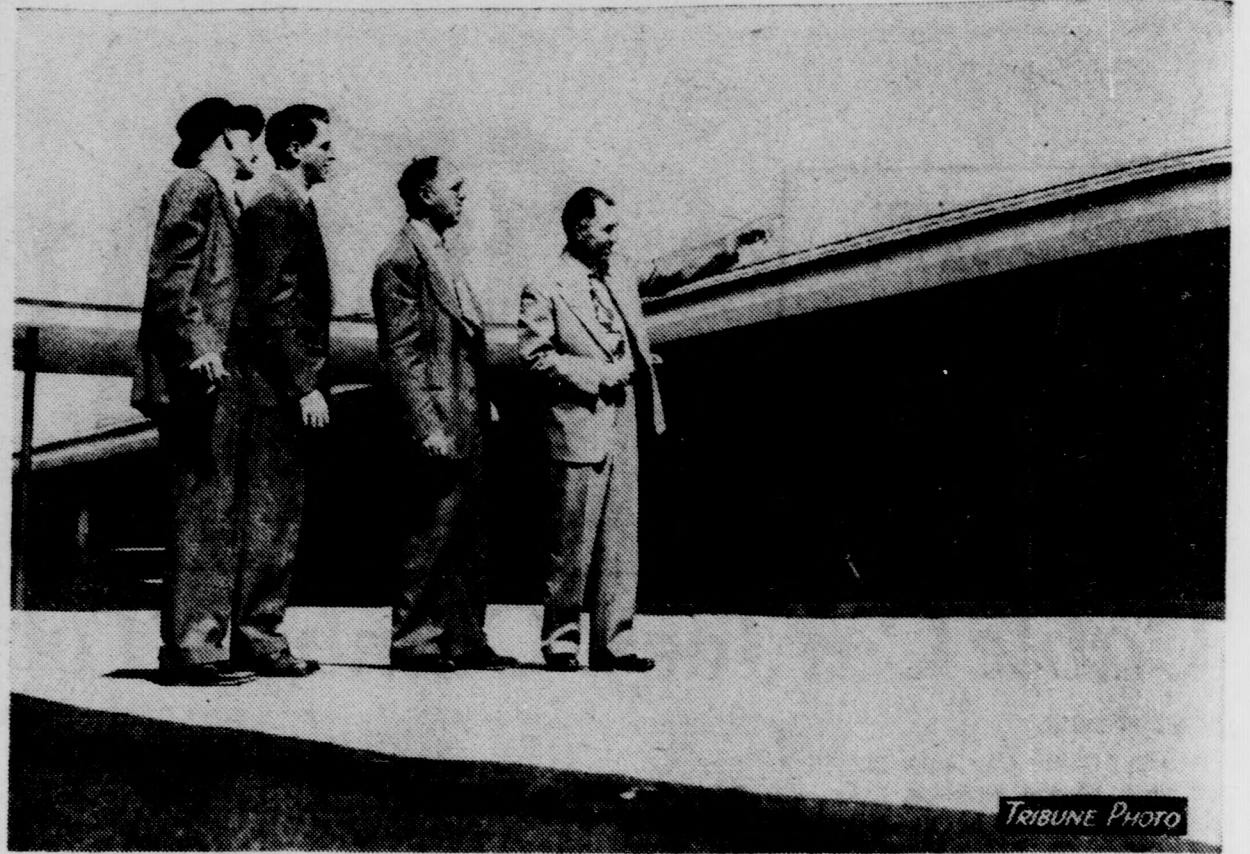

On Monday, Sept. 12, the Mariners will hold their next meeting at the home of Nancy Rogers.

YMCA Sets Dedication Rites Sunday

Dedication services for the new addition and expanded program space of the Sequoia Dist. YMCA Building at Brewster Ave. and Clinton St. will be held Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock with a program and open house reception.

The program will be open to the public and invitations have been forwarded to several hundred members of the association, Kenneth T. Osman, executive secretary, announced.

Roy Sorenson, general secretary of the San Francisco YMCA, will make the dedicatory address. Musical numbers will be given. The invocation will be given by the Rev. C. Peter Boes, president of the Redwood City Ministerial Assn. Chairman of the dedication service will be Donald L. Bogle, member of the board of managers.

The new addition to the building includes a boys' game room, snack bar, office and lavatories. The large game center is of rustic redwood finish and is equipped with large double windows that provide an adequate amount of light for game activities.

In addition to the new game center, the old unit of the building was refinished and a community lounge provided, with an expansive fireplace in one end of the room. Other improvements were made to the offices and supervisory controls of the building. Service clubs and interested citizens, in addition to members of the board of managers of the Sequoia YMCA, have contributed to the fund which made the additions and improvements to the building possible.

The YMCA is an agency of the Community Chest. Sequoia Dist. YMCA serves from Belmont on the north through Menlo Park on the south.

California's Climate Told In Its New Type of Styling

BY WAYNE HARBERT

SACRAMENTO (AP)—California fashions are also California gold.

Nightly at the 49er Centennial Fair the models are stepping across a stage with a golden backdrop and showing Californians the clothes other Californians are designing and making for them.

Golden State fashions are being worn. Californians gross as much as $450,000,000 yearly, the industry estimates.

Says Miss Lynn Norby, Los Angeles, the fair's fashion director, of California styles:

"They have made people the world over aware that our climate is something different—and wonderful—that can inspire an entirely new type of styling. That 'made in California' label in a garment means something 'special'—a new way of casual, yet well-groomed living."

It is suggested that California is getting gold from fashions because of the sunny informality of the south and the valleys where there are colors and casualness. And then there is sober San Francisco where cotton's too cold and the women are groomed all the year in suits and hose and heels.

It's also said California fashions are showing because the sunshine permits frequent changes—and they need not be made too fast.

Last night's revue gave California plenty for whistling about on the way home. And the master of ceremonies did not have to whisper the prices, in many cases, which store people will attach to the blue ribbon and gold medal winners.

There were colors called bramberry red, centennial yellow, Pacific blue, oak green, dusty pink and lacquer red. And a blue in a raincoat and matching umbrella must have come from across California's border in deep Crater Lake.

One black gabardine suit had satin stripe trim around the waist. There was a black velvet with a skirt-long red poppy. A yellow swim suit modeled by a 5-year-old girl, the sway not yet out of her back, carried a white daisy trim.

Aqua pajamas (a blonde with cigarette smoking) had a top with a neckline to the waist. There was an iridescent shark-skin suit the color of diluted loganberry and a two-tone jersey, also in berry patch hues.

One of the models sews and to prove it she wore a strapless cotton, with stole, both the color of butter in winter.

There was satin in copper coin color, a cocktail suit worn with a hat of peacock feathers, and a patio sun dress in light blue cotton with longer length and a neckline which can go up on the shoulders or down on them.

The sweepstakes cup in the state fair's fashion competition, however, is not going to something which will be worn by woman. It will take the shoulders of a man to wear the prize coat—styled in houndstooth corduroy and selling at a price many women can afford for their men to pay.

State Plans to Increase Its Cash Allocations to Handle Rising School Enrollments

SACRAMENTO (AP)—School at-districts will increase this year, Simpson said a preliminary re-000,000 will be apportioned to 787,370 was apportioned. Attendance reports show an increase of more than 7 per cent over the previous year.
